

Hello

As it's Saint Georges Day on Thursday I thought you might like to have a go at some of these activities during the week;

You could dress up as a knight, a dragon or a princess and take a picture

You could make your own shield out of card by cutting and sticking, using paint, felt tips or crayons

Have you got any stories about dragons that you could read or look at?

You could use recycling to make a castle out of junk, or building blocks

You might want to make a fire breathing dragon by painting or colouring a toilet roll tube, giving him some eyes and gluing strips of yellow, red or orange paper inside one of the ends where his mouth will be. Then you can practice your blowing skills by blowing the other end when its dry and making your dragon breathe fire!

Please remember it's about having a go and practising our skills the end result doesn't have to be perfect!