

Flower Ice Pies

This is a great activity to do on those sunny garden days.

Pick some flowers, grass, leaves, stones and anything you else you find and put them into a container (I used a takeaway pot), cover them with water and pop in the freezer for a few hours.

After it's completely frozen you can take it out the pot and admire your piece of art work.

To expand the activity.....

- You could add string to the water, with a bit hanging out, and hang it up on the washing line or a tree and watch it glisten in the sun and feel the drops of water as it starts to melt.
- You could get a couple of spoons and see if you can chip the ice away to get back the things you put in.
  - You could see how long it takes to melt and back to water.
